14:00:02   CESAR CHAVEZ: See I think that also um, to make it easy we should have, it's easier if we have this uh, a sort of a summary. The whole idea's to teach 'em how to build and that's what we're looking for. Well it's the only time you make uh, a transaction uh, you have a uh...AUDIO CUT...but you don't do that. See when you make a transaction you make a record of those transactions and then from there you post to the book.

14:00:45   UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: That's double work no?

14:00:45   CESAR CHAVEZ: No that's something that's gotta be done. See, for instance say that uh, money's transferred from one account to the other you just don't do it here you make a little transaction slip and you keep that see because when you have to go back to uh, look for things it's just orderly, neat way of doing it and also it's easier, it's easier to teach the farmworkers to keep books if you do it that way. I thought I had a form here to show you but I don't. And also we have, we have to have some kind of a, some kind of our own record in the uh, in the uh, um, any transaction made has to be re, you have to have an original uh, uh, entry. In other words, before you get into the, into the books you have to have uh, a journal, a receipt.

14:01:50   UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: An advice from the bank for example, isn't that the same thing? AUDIO CUT

14:01:55   CESAR CHAVEZ: Yeah, but if someone knows how to do it no problem but if we're teaching a system then then we wanna pick the right, the right uh, color grape and the right sugar content grape, you know....AUDIO CUT.....It's happening faster. what happens when the movement's going too fast and we can't keep, we have to constantly be going outside the uh, the uh, farmworker community to get people to do the work because they're not trained and I think this is, this is something that's gonna train 'em.

14:02:28   UNIDENTIFIED VOICE: Nobody's seen the......

14:02:29   CESAR CHAVEZ: Oh I see. It's uh, anyway. So uh....
