

Farm Union Chief in Hospital

AP

Published: November 2, 1988

LEAD: Cesar Chavez, the president of the United Farm Workers, was in the hospital today for injuries suffered when he fell eight feet from his porch to the ground. The 62-year-old Mr. Chavez, who was working at his home Sunday when the porch railing gave way, suffered a fractured wrist and bruises to his head, chest and back, said his son, Paul.

Cesar Chavez, the president of the United Farm Workers, was in the hospital today for injuries suffered when he fell eight feet from his porch to the ground. The 62-year-old Mr. Chavez, who was working at his home Sunday when the porch railing gave way, suffered a fractured wrist and bruises to his head, chest and back, said his son, Paul.