My Dear Son

Jamaica 31 August 1780 —

You made me happy by your last letter dated the 5 June as it brought me the good tidings of all your health and my dear Dugby's recovery. I hope you had an agreeable voyage through England, and meet with a place suitable for the purpose you mention. I can't believe any person forgoes living in England to Jamaica and hope you yourself will not oblige you to come over before the War is ended. I wrote you by Mr. Parker of Liverpool before, hope the fleet are safe arrived we have not yet got in all the rebel Regiments computed to more than fifty out men & women and they are not to be found the parties continually after them we have several Company of Soldiers quartered about in the places of most danger to prevent their robbing & getting more ammunition as it is thought what they had is almost expended, it has already left the Country four thousand pounds for necessarys to support the people & parties on duty and they have been greatly harassed the Head of the Rebels now left is one Pinion who has sent word that if he lives till the Day weather comes in not one will shall work the next day for he will burn all but it is hoped he will not be longe before he is taken. I sent up a copy of Mr. Confin's Father's Will and shall be glad of a title for the same. Mr. Carr promised to send what other papers was necessary we have now fine reasonable weather, and all the Regiments every where seem to be quiet as they have had such bad success with these plots to hoped they wont think of it again — we have but one ship that sails from this port in this fleet and we have no acquaintance with the Capt. is the reason I cant send you any thing tho' I have two fine Books of a history for you a title & some great parts

4 Parat for the Girls all ovth I must excuse till next year

I hope this will meet you & all your family and all your changes in good health to whom I beg to be kindly remembered

Peculiarly to my Dear Daughter who I beg will excuse my not writing to her as I have nothing worth communicating

I am well as usual Mr. Barclay presents his love & these Grets to you all my Compliments to all Inquiring friends & am with love & blessing my Dear Son

Your most affecⁿ Mother
