Bishop Opposes UFW Boycott

Hugh A. Donohoe explained Saturday he does not favor the boycott against supermarkets in connection with the United Farm Workers struggle against the Teamsters.

Donohoe said he feels the boycott serves only to "muddy the waters" in the legislative fight for the right of farm workers to Fresno Catholic Bishop choose or reject union representation by secret ballot. Thus, at the national conference of Catholic hishops in Washington, DC, Donohoe voted against support of the Cesar Chavez boycott.

> "It brings into the picture too many innocent persons who are included with out any redress whatsoever," the bishop explained.

"I wasn't in favor of the boycott because I wanted to keep the climate as free of the issue as possible."

Donohoe was outvoted by the other bishops at the annual meeting and a statement was released supporting the UFW hoycott.

The Fresno bishop who has long been involved in the farm labor controversy, said he feels the focus now should be on the legislative area to gain the secret ballot for farm worker representation.
