

He smiles and walks but what does he really have to offer?? He doesn't know how to negotiate a contract. He doesn't know that working people who just happen to be farmworkers want good money for their work. He can't professionally administer a union so that his members and their families don't go hungry. He doesn't know that farmworkers are fed up with hot-air promises of "pie-in-the-sky" and forty acres too. He doesn't know that farmworkers want to work and work under a damn good labor contract protecting them. He doesn't know that farmworkers want a Union that won't bleed them. He doesn't know that farmworkers are going to vote for the Teamsters because they want the best representation without paying tribute money. . . . But after elections Cesar will find out that the empty bag he holds out will fool farmworkers no more!!

VOTE TEAMSTERS!
