

MORE OLIVES? MORE MONEY!

Belridge Farms pays 14¢ for a big bucket for picking olives. But if you go to the store to buy back those same olives, you have to pay 39¢ for a little jar or can and they give you maybe 41 olives and a little juice and vinegar. Oh sure, maybe the jar costs a nickle and some pennies go to the store and for transportation and profits...

But think of it this way: AFTER YOU HAVE PUT 41 OLIVES IN YOUR BUCKET, THE COMPANY CAN SELL THOSE 41 OLIVES FOR ENOUGH MONEY TO PAY YOU FOR THE WHOLE BUCKET AND ALREADY MAKE A PROFIT. ALL THE REST OF THOSE HUNDREDS OF OLIVES YOU PUT IN THAT BUCKET ARE EXTRA PROFIT FOR DICK MEYERS AND THE BOSSES AT BELRIDGE. THE UNION SAYS: IF YOU ARE PUTTING MORE THAN 41 OLIVES IN THAT BUCKET, THE COMPANY SHOULD PUT MORE THAN 14¢ IN YOUR POCKET!

"TAKE ME TO THE BANK, BOY.
I'VE GOT SO MUCH MONEY TO DEPOSIT"

VOTE

UNITED FARM WORKERS
AFL-CIO