BUILDING THE BOYCOTT WITH LIMITED TROOPS

We have brought two thirds of our boycott personnel into the Proposition Campaign in California after it became apparent that the growers were putting everything into defeating us in November.

It's a sacrifice that no one wanted to make but it is the best way for the Union to use its resources - people. In spite of leaving only two to four people in most cities, I believe that we can continue making progress on the boycott. As you can see in the enclosure on cooperating chains, we have made a good start with our demands in the U.S. and Canada. In the past week, we have won commitments from 230 Acme stores in the Philadelphia area, 180 Wakefern Shop Rites in New Jersey, 360 A & P stores in New England and Upstate New York and 600 stores in the Montreal area.

With only a few of you left in the boycott cities we must work to hold onto the store commitments we have and to keep building the delegations and roving picket lines with our supporters in order to get more stores in line. In areas where your division directors have been pulled into the Initiative Campaign, Virginia and I will deal directly with you via the WATTS. We will call you regularly and want you to feel free to call us any time you have a question or problem.

The key to making progress during the next two months is to use our supporters to carry the burden for phoning, coordinating picket line activities, delegations, office work and organizing fundraisers. If your plans are concrete our supporters will come through with the help we need. Please analyze your situation and make a plan for following through with store delegations (several may be necessary for each chain) and picketing at stores who aren't cooperating with our demands or are advertising table grapes. DON'T GET LOCKED INTO ANY LARGE GROCERY CHAIN FIGHTS.

FUNDRAISING

All of the union's financial resources are going into the Proposition and we need to raise every penny possible to go into the general union fund in order
