

Chavez Fasting to Protest Arizona Farm Labor Law

TOLLESON, Ariz., May 14 (AP)—Cesar Chavez went into the third day of a fast today to protest the passage in Arizona of a farm labor law that is termed repressive by his United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

Mr. Chavez called his action "a fast to erase the fears" of Arizona legislators and growers, rather than a hunger strike.

The law sets up a state board to handle farm labor disputes and allows growers to get 10-day injunctions to ease strikes at harvest time. Gov. Jack Williams signed it Thursday.
