

Successor to Cesar Chavez

Published: May 5, 1993

The successor to Cesar Chavez, the founder and president of the United Farm Workers who died last month, will be Arturo Rodriguez, a longtime union official and Mr. Chavez's son-in-law, the union announced on Monday. Mr. Rodriguez, 43, is married to Mr. Chavez's daughter, Linda, and was the union's first vice president before being promoted by the executive board on Sunday. Mr. Chavez, who ran the union for three decades, died of natural causes on April 22 at the age of 66.